

I am very depressed by the Comission's vote today over broadcast ownership. Deregulation will result in fewer companies owning more media. The end result of this will be fewer viewpoints and information, especially on TV and in newspapers. I have serious doubts in the Comission's leader's and views on media ownership. Because of this vote massive lay-offs will result. How does it feel to considerably slow, even halt the information revolution??